Introduction

This book is designed to revise and consolidate grammar points at the level of First Certificate. It also provides practice in key lexical areas.

There are regular consolidation units which include forms of testing commonly used in the First Certificate examination.

It can be used as a self-study reference grammar and practice book, or as supplementary material in classes preparing for examinations.

If used for classwork, activities can be done individually or co-operatively in pairs or small groups. The grammatical information provided can be used for reference when needed, or worked through systematically

The grammar section includes recognition and concept-checking activities, as well as production activities.

Each vocabulary section includes focus on phrasal verbs, prepositions and particles, and collocations.

Explanations

Describing events in the past

- Main events
The past simple is used to describe finished actions and events in the past.
Susan went into the station and bought a ticket.
- Background description
The past continuous is used to describe actions in progress in the past. It gives information about the background situation.
There were a lot of people waiting in the station. Some were sleeping on the benches, and others were walking up and down. Susan was looking for Graham, so she didn't sit down.
- Past before past
The past perfect is used to make it clear that one past event happens before another past event. We use the past perfect for the earlier event.
By the time the train arrived, Susan had managed to push her way to the front of the crowd.
It is not always necessary to use the past perfect if a time expression makes the order of events clear.
Before the train arrived, Susan managed to push her way to the front of the crowd.*
- Past continuous used with past simple
We often use the past continuous first to set the scene, and then the past simple for the separate, completed actions that happen.
Susan was looking for Graham, so she didn't sit down. Instead, she tried calling him on her mobile phone.
We often contrast an action in progress with a sudden event which interrupts it.
While Susan was trying to get onto the platform, a man grabbed her handbag.
- Participle clauses
Participle clauses are introduced by the time expressions before, after and while. They have the same subject as the following clause.
After struggling with him, Susan pulled the bag from his hands.*

Habits in the past

- Past simple
The past simple is used to describe past habits or states. A time expression is usually necessary.
/ always got up at six in those days, (habit)
/ lived in Austria for several years. (state)

FIRST CERTIFICATE LANGUAGE PRACTICE

- Used to

Used to is used to describe past habits or states. A time expression is not necessary.

I used to get up at six, but now I get up at eight.

I used to own a horse. (I owned a horse once.)

With negatives and questions used to becomes use to.

I didn't use to like beer.

Did you use to swim every day?*

When we use used to we suggest that the action is no longer true and so make a strong contrast with the present.

- Would

Would is used to describe a person's typical activities in the past.

It can only be used to describe repeated actions, not states. It is mainly used in writing, and in personal reminiscences.

Every evening was the same. Jack would turn on the radio, light his pipe and fall asleep.

- Past continuous

The past continuous can be used to describe a repeated action in the past, often an annoying habit. A frequency adverb is necessary.

When Peter was younger, he was always getting into trouble.

Politeness and uncertainty

We can use the past continuous with think, hope and wonder to give a polite or uncertain meaning.

I was thinking of having a party next week.

I was hoping you would join us at the cafe tonight.

I was wondering if you could help me.

Key points

- 1 The past simple describes completed events in the past, such as the main events in a narrative. It can also describe habits and routines in the past.
- 2 The past continuous is used for:
 - a) background description.
 - b) actions in progress, often contrasted with a sudden event.
 The past continuous cannot be used to describe past routines and habits.
- 3 Participle clauses can introduce a clause giving the main event.
The subjects of both clauses must be the same.
- 4 The past perfect describes a past event which took place before another past event. If before or after is used, the past perfect is optional.
The past perfect is not used for an event that happened a long time ago in the past.
- 5 Used to only refers to past time, and has no present form.
- 6 Would can be used to describe habitual actions in the past, usually in writing. It does not make such a strong contrast with the present as used to. Compare:

Jim would always make his mother a cup of tea after lunch.

Jim used to drink tea, but now he prefers coffee.

Would cannot be used to describe states.

Sally used to be a dancer.

Explanations

Recent events

Present perfect simple

The present perfect simple is used to describe recent events.

I've left my shopping bag behind.

The event happened in the past, but there is a result in the present.

I've broken my arm, as you can see.

No definite time is given for the event, but to emphasise the idea of recentness we can use just.

I've just broken my watch.

We can also describe events that have not happened.

I haven't found her phone number yet.

Indefinite events

- Present perfect simple

No definite time is given for the events. They are a series of actions in our life up to now.

I've been to France three times.

After It's/This is the first/second time we use the present perfect. It also refers to our life up to now.

This is the first time I have eaten Japanese food.

- Compared with past simple

Events described using the past simple have definite times.

I went to France last year.

I ate at a Japanese restaurant on Saturday.

If we think of a definite place for an event, this may suggest a definite time.

I left my shopping bag on the train.

Extended or repeated events

- Present perfect simple

The present perfect simple describes a state which lasts up to the present.

I've lived in this house for five years.

The present perfect simple can describe a habitual action in a period of time up to the present.

I've never worn a tie to work, and I refuse to start now!

- Present perfect continuous

The present perfect continuous can also describe a state which lasts up to the present moment.

I've been living in this house for five years.

There is little difference in meaning between simple and continuous in this case, or with How long questions.

How long have you lived/been living in this house?

The verbs wait, sit, lie, stay prefer the present perfect continuous.

I've been waiting for ages.

For, since, ago

See Grammar 14 for contrast between these time expressions.

Present perfect simple or continuous?

- Completed action

The present perfect simple can show that an action is complete.

I've finished my homework!

If we say how many or how much we use the simple form. A certain amount has been completed.

I've written ten pages of my homework!

- Not completed

The present perfect continuous can show that an action is not completed, or that it has finished recently.

We've been walking for hours! Let's have a rest.

I've been digging the garden. That's why I'm so dirty!

- Present result or action in progress

We use the present perfect simple if our attention is on the present result.

I've written my homework. Now I can watch the television.

We use the present perfect continuous if our attention is on the action in progress.

I've been writing my homework all evening! I didn't know it would take so long.

A letter from the builders

Dear Mrs Sangster,

Just a quick note to explain what we have been done so far this month. The work on the kitchen has gone well so far, although we haven't already finished knocking down the outside wall yet. So I wrote to you last week and have explained that two of my workmen were ill. They have quite recovered now, I am glad to say, and they have came back to work yesterday. As the weather has been bad we have been work inside most of the time, and all the painting is now been finished. We have also put in a new window in the kitchen, as you have instructed in your last letter. As you have not been visiting here for two weeks we have not had the chance to discuss the walls. When we checked them we have discovered that they are in a dangerous condition. I'll let you know what we have do to them.

Best wishes,

Andrew Turner, Builder

Key points

- 1 The present perfect simple describes events without a definite time. Either these events take place in a period of time leading up to the present moment, or the result of the event is still evident.
The choice between the present perfect simple and the past simple can depend on how the speaker thinks. Compare:
A: What's the matter? A: What's the matter?
B: I've had an accident. B: I had an accident.
In the second example, the speaker thinks of the event as finished rather than still connected with the present.
- 2 Events described with the present perfect simple may be recent, or not.
- 3 The present perfect continuous is used for an action in progress. It suggests that the action is unfinished, or recently finished. Compare:
I've read this book. (completion of the action is emphasised)
I've been reading this book. (the action itself is emphasised - it may not be complete)
The present perfect continuous can also emphasise the length of time of the action.
- 4 For refers to a finished or unfinished period of time.
I waited for three hours.
He's been sitting there for ages.
Since refers to the point at which an unfinished period of time began.
He's been sitting there since two o'clock.
Ago refers to the time of a finished event.
Jill arrived a week ago.

Explanations

Prediction

- Will
Will is used to make predictions. It is often preceded by I think or by opinion words like perhaps. A time expression is also necessary.
I think it'll rain tomorrow. Perhaps she'll be late.
 In speech, will is contracted to 'll.
 See also Grammar 18 and 19 for functional uses of will.
- Going to
Going to is also used for predictions. It is especially common when we can see the cause of the event.
Look out! There's a bus coming! It's going to hit us!
I can see you're going to have a baby. When is it due?
You're going to fall!
Going to is also common in impersonal statements.
Liverpool are going to win the Cup.
 But will can also be used for most examples like this, with no change of meaning.
- Future continuous
 The future continuous is used to describe a situation in progress at a particular time in the future.
This time next week I expect I'll be living in London. And I'll probably be cycling to work.
- Future perfect
 The future perfect looks back from a point in the future.
By the time we get there, the film will have started.
 It refers to indefinite time up to that point. This means that when we get to the future point we can say:
The film has started.

Intention

- Going to
Going to is used to describe a present intention or plan. This is something we have already decided to do.
I'm going to fix the television tomorrow.*
- Will
Will is used for instant decisions made at the time of speaking.
I know, I'll get him a wallet for his birthday.

FIRST CERTIFICATE LANGUAGE PRACTICE

Fixed arrangements and timetables

- Present continuous

The present continuous is used to describe definite, fixed arrangements.

Sorry, I can't help you, I'm leaving in the morning.

The arrangements are often social arrangements or appointments and may be written in a diary.

- Present simple

The present simple is used to describe future events which are based on a timetable, programme or calendar.

My train leaves at 11.30 tomorrow morning.

When, until, as soon as

After the time expressions when, until and as soon as a present tense form is used, although this refers to future time.

I'll wait for you here until you get back.

The present perfect is often used in cases like this to emphasize the completion of an event.

I'll wait here until you have finished.

Keeping a diary

Are you one of those people who will know exactly what they will be doing every day next week? When the different days will arrive, will you have get out your diary, or are you the kind of person who will just guess? Some people will write their appointments in a diary, but others just hope that they will remember. For example, tonight I'm be going to the cinema, but perhaps I'll not forget all about it. You see, I will never keep a diary. I try not to forget my appointments, but I know that I will usually do. I just don't like planning my future. I know that one day I'm going to make a serious mistake. I'll be miss an important examination, or by the time I remember it and get there, it will have been finished. Perhaps that will be when I have finally buy a diary.

Grammar 14: Time expressions
Grammar 18 and 19:
 Functional uses of will

Explanations

Present simple

- Facts which are always true
The present simple is used to describe permanent facts, for example in science and geographical descriptions.
The light from the Sun takes 8 mins 20 secs to reach the Earth.
The River Po flows into the Adriatic Sea.
The present simple is also used for situations that are generally true.
I work in an office and live in a flat in the suburbs.
- Habitual actions
The present simple is used to describe habits and routines. A frequency adverb is often used.
I usually take the bus to work.
- Summary of events
The present simple can be used to make a summary of the events in a narrative, for example in a film or book. It can also be used for a table of historical events.
In Chapter 1, Susan meets David, and agrees to go to the school dance with him.
In 1789 the French Revolution begins.

Present continuous

- Actions which are in progress now
The present continuous is used to describe actions which are temporary and not yet finished.
I'm doing the washing-up.
The action may be happening right now, or around now.
I'm reading one of the Harry Potter books at the moment.
- Habits during a temporary situation
The present continuous can describe a habit that happens over a short period of time. A time expression is necessary.
At the moment we're sending all the mail by courier, because the Post Office is on strike.
- A repeated temporary action
The present continuous can describe a single action that is repeated. A time expression is necessary.
Whenever I see Tom he's smoking.
You're making the same mistake again!
In examples like this we are often exaggerating or complaining. This is particularly true when we use always.
You're always borrowing money from me!

Problems with simple and continuous

- Some verbs are not normally used in the continuous form, because they describe activities which already extend in time. These are called 'state' verbs.
be, believe, cost, depend, have, hear, know, matter, smell, suppose, taste, think, understand
- Some of these verbs can be used in continuous forms with a change of meaning.

Tim is being rather difficult at the moment.	(behave)
I'm having breakfast.	(eat)
I'm tasting the soup, to check if it needs more salt.	(sample)
I'm thinking of buying a new car.	(consider)
- In many situations we can use either a simple or continuous form. The simple form is for a permanent situation or general habit, the continuous form is for a temporary situation.

I live in London.	(it's my permanent home)
I'm living in London.	(just for a year - my home is in Athens)
Do you sleep a lot?	(Is it your habit?)
Are you sleeping enough?	(What is happening at the moment?)

Key points

- 1 The present simple describes facts and habitual actions. The present continuous describes actions which are still in progress at the time of speaking.
- 2 Many verbs which describe states rather than momentary events can only be used in the simple form. Many verbs describing mental activities (understand, know) are of this kind.
- 3 Some verbs have both state and event meanings, but the meanings are not the same.
- 4 When describing a photograph, we usually describe the scene as if it is happening now, and use the present continuous.
- 5 Present tense forms are also used to refer to future time. See Grammar 3.
- 6 Where some languages use present tenses, English uses the present perfect. See Grammar 2.

I've lived in Milan all my life.

Explanations

With tense changes

- Summary of tense changes
Tenses move back in time after a past tense reporting verb.
'I agree.' Peter said he agreed.
'I'm leaving.' Jane said she was leaving.
But the past perfect remains the same.
'No, I hadn't forgotten.' Greg said that he hadn't forgotten.
For Modals (can, may, must, should) see Grammar 16.
- Main verb changes
In complex sentences, only the first verb is changed.
'I was walking home when I saw the accident.'
James said he had been walking home when he saw the accident.
- Reference words
Some words referring to people, places and time change in indirect speech, because the point of reference changes.
'I'll see you here tomorrow, Jack,' said Mary.
Mary told Jack she would see him there the next day.
'I gave you this yesterday.'
John said he had given it to her the day before.
Other words of this kind appear in the Practice section.

Without tense changes

- Present tense reports
If the reporting verb is in the present tense, there is no change.
Brenda says she's arriving at about 6.00.
- Past tense reports
If the reported words are 'always true', there is no change.
Harry told me that he still likes you.
If a message is being repeated immediately, there is no change.
Mary said she's too busy to come.

Questions

- Reporting questions
Yes/No questions are reported using if. The verb does not have a question form, but has the form of a normal statement. There is no question mark.
'Do you like hamburgers?'
Charles asked me if I liked hamburgers.
Wh- questions are reported with the question word. The verb has the form of a normal statement. There is no question mark.
'Where are we going?' I asked Sue where we were going.

- Reporting polite questions

We can use a phrase like Could you tell me or Do you know to ask for information in a polite way. Note the word order.

'Where is the station?' 'Could you tell me where the station is?'

When we report this kind of question we use ask and the usual tense change rules.

I asked him where the station was.

Commands and requests

- Commands are reported with tell and the infinitive.

'Go away!' He told me to go away.

Reporting verbs

We say something and we tell somebody.

I said I could meet you this evening, but I'm really busy.*

She suggested going to the beach. (suggest + -ing form)

She offered to give me a lift. (offer + infinitive)

She reminded me to call my mother. (remind + object + infinitive)

Paraphrase

It is often impossible or unnecessary to report every word spoken.

points

- 1 Tense changes are usually necessary after a past tense reporting verb.
- 2 Words referring to time and place also change in indirect speech.
- 3 Indirect questions are of two types. Yes/No questions are reported with if and Wh- questions are reported with the question word. The verb is not put into a question form in an indirect question.
- 4 Indirect speech is often introduced by a reporting verb. These verbs are followed by a variety of grammatical constructions. A good dictionary will include this information.
- 5 Indirect speech may also involve paraphrasing the main points of what was said.

present and future

Grammar 17: Modal verbs: past

Explanations

Real/likely situations: first conditional

- With if
A first conditional describes a real or likely situation. A present tense is used after if, but the time referred to is the future. Will/Won't are common in the result clause.

If you fall, I won't be able to catch you!

This means that there is a real possibility this will happen.

Going to can be used instead of will.

If it rains, we're going to get wet.

The modal verb can is also common in first conditional sentences.

If the cases are too heavy, I can help you carry them.

- Unless, provided, as long as

Unless means If... not.

Unless you leave at once, I'll call the police.

If you don't leave at once, I'll call the police.

Provided and as long as can also introduce a condition.

Provided you leave now, you'll catch the train.

- With the imperative

It is common to use the imperative instead of if.

Get me some cigarettes, and I'll pay you later.

- With should

We can use should instead of if in a conditional sentence. It means if by any chance ... and makes the action less likely.

Should you see John, can you give him a message?

Unreal/imaginary situations: second conditional

- With if

A second conditional describes an unreal or imaginary situation. A past simple tense is used after if, but the time referred to is the future. Would is common in the result clause.

If you fell, you would hurt yourself.

This means that there is a small possibility that this will happen. The situation and its result are imagined.

The modal verbs might and could are common in second conditional sentences.

If you became a millionaire, you might be unhappy.

- Were

Were is often used instead of was in formal language. Note that were is not stressed in speech.

If I were taller, I'd join the basketball team.

If I were you, I'd leave now. (I and you are stressed in speech)

- Were to

Were to is another way of expressing a second conditional sentence.

If they were to offer me the job, I'd turn it down.

Unreal/imaginary past situations: third
conditional

- With if

A third conditional describes an unreal or imaginary situation in the past. A past perfect tense is used after if. Would + have + past participle is used in the result clause.

If John had studied more, he would have got better marks.

This means that John didn't study more. A past situation, different to the one that really happened, is imagined.

The modal verbs might and could are common in this kind of sentence.

If you had tried harder, you might have succeeded.

- Mixed conditions

For past events which have a result continuing in the present, it is possible to use the form of a third conditional in the if-clause, and the form of a second conditional in the result clause.

If you had saved some money, you wouldn't be so hard up.

Other if sentences

If can mean when in the sense of whenever.

If/When/Whenever it rains, we play football indoors instead.

In this type of sentence we use the present simple in both the if-clause and the result clause.

If can also mean if it is true that.

If (it is true that) you have a job like that, you are very lucky.

If (it is true that) nothing happened, you were lucky.

If+ past simple can be used for past events with a real possibility, or that we know are true. This type of sentence does not have any special grammar rules.

If you missed the TV programme last night, you can borrow my recording.

If the police arrested him, they must suspect him.

Key points

- 1 The present tense form in first conditional sentences does not refer to present time. It refers to future time.
- 2 The past tense form in second conditional sentences does not refer to past time. It refers to future time.
- 3 The difference between first and second conditional sentences can depend on the attitude of the speaker. The future situation might have a high possibility of happening (first conditional) or a low possibility (second conditional).
If she falls, she'll land in the safety net.
 (This means that there is a real possibility that she will fall.)
If she fell she would land in the safety net.
 (I am commenting on an imaginary situation, and I do not think she is likely to fall.)
- 4 Might and could are common in conditional sentences when we are uncertain about our predictions.
If you leave now, you might catch the train.
If you asked him nicely, he might agree.
If you'd continued driving in that way, you could have hit another car.
- 5 Mixed conditional forms are possible, especially where a past event has a present result.
If Brenda hadn't stolen the money, she wouldn't be in prison.
- 6 Unless, provided, and as long as can introduce conditions.

Wishes and related forms

Explanations

Wishes

- Wishes about the present

For wishes about the present we use / wish + the past simple. The time referred to is an imaginary present.

I wish I knew the answer to this question. (I do not know the answer.)

I wish I didn't have so much work to do. (I do have a lot of work.)

- Wishes about the past

For wishes about the past we use / wish + the past perfect. The time referred to is past time.

I wish I had gone to your party last week. (I did not go.)

- Wishes about the future

We can use could to refer to a future event.

/ wish June could meet me next week.

We also use could to refer to something that is generally difficult or impossible.

/ wish I could drive.

I wish I could contact him, but I don't have my mobile phone with me.

We can also use have to to refer to a future event.

J wish I didn't have to get up early tomorrow.

- m Wishes using would

When we want to complain about a bad habit we use I wish + would.

I wish Peter wouldn't chew gum all the time.

We also use / wish + would to refer to something that we would like to happen.

I wish the police would do something about these people!

If only

We can replace / wish with If only for emphasis.

If only I knew the answer to this question!*

If only I had gone to your party last week!*

In speech, only is often heavily stressed.

It's time

The construction it's time I/you/we ... is followed by a past tense.

Sorry, but it's time we went home.

The meaning here is similar to a second conditional.

If we went home, it would be better.

High can be added for extra emphasis.

It's high time you learned to look after yourself!*

- It's time can also be used with the infinitive. The meaning changes slightly.

It's time you started work! (you are being lazy and not working)

It's time to start work. (a simple statement of fact)

I'd rather

The construction I'd rather I/you/we ... is followed by a past tense.

I'd rather you didn't tell John about this.

The meaning here is similar to a second conditional.

If you didn't tell John about this, it would be better.

Suppose and imagine

In informal speech we can use suppose or imagine in place of if. The construction is a normal second conditional.

Suppose you lost your keys. What would you do?

Imagine you were rich. How would you feel?

Losing your memory

Imagine it that one day you woke up and discovered that you had completely lost your memory. How would you have feel exactly? I have thought about this recently after I was involved in a traffic accident. I woke up in hospital, and said to myself 'It's the time I got up and have went to school!' I soon realised my mistake. A nurse came in and asked to me what my name was. I thought about it for a moment and then said, 'I would wish I knew!' Then I tried to get up. 'I'd rather prefer you didn't do that,' said the nurse. 'Don't worry you'll have it your memory back soon.' 'I wish you hadn't have said that,' I replied. 'Now I am really worried! If I hadn't looked in my wallet, I wouldn't have been known my own name!' Unfortunately my memory soon came back, and I realised I had a maths test the next day!

GRAMMAR 8 WISHES AND RELATED FORMS

g) I don't want you to buy me a present.

sooner

I'd.....buy me a present.

h) I don't like being so tall.

I.....so tall.

i) We ought to start work now.

started

It's.....work.

j) I regret not going to university.

had

I.....to university.

Key points

- 1 Wishes about the present use a past tense form, and wishes about the past use a past perfect form.
- 2 Wishes with would refer either to annoying habits or to something we would like to happen.
- 3 Past tense forms are used after It's time and I'd rather to show an imaginary situation.

It's time we left.

- 4 I hope ... can be used in a similar way to I wish ... But I hope is used only for wishes that are actually possible, and it usually has a good meaning.

I hope you have a good time.

There's a lot to see. I hope you won't be late.

Wish cannot be used in this way.

I hope ... can be used with the infinitive.

I hope to see you next week.

But I wish with the infinitive has a different meaning. It is a formal way of saying I'd like to (or I want to).

I wish to interview you for the job next week.

Note also these expressions:

I wish you luck/success in your new job.

We wish you a happy New Year.

Explanations

Uses

- Transitive and intransitive verbs

Only verbs with an object (transitive verbs) can be made passive.

They sent the letter. The letter was sent.

They arrived late. (cannot be made passive)

Verbs with both direct and indirect objects can be made passive in two ways

They sent me the letter. I was sent the letter.

The letter was sent to me.

Some transitive verbs cannot be made passive in some uses. For example like and love.

I like this place. (a passive form of this sentence is not possible)

- Focus on important information

By placing the object at the beginning of the sentence, the passive can change the focus of interest in a sentence.

United were beaten by Arsenal. (we are more interested in United)

The passive is used in a variety of contexts. Notice how the agent (person who does the action) is unimportant, unknown or clear from the situation,

Impersonal statements Students are asked not to smoke.

When the agent is unknown My bike has been stolen!

(Here we could say Someone/They have stolen my bike.)

When the agent is obvious Mr Jones will be arrested.

How something was done The box was opened with a knife.

Reporting verbs

- The passive is often used with say, believe, understand, know and similar verbs used in reporting speech to avoid an impersonal they or people.

People say that John Wilson lives in New York.

John Wilson is said to live in New York.

- Other verb forms can also be reported in this way.

They say John Wilson is travelling in Africa.

John Wilson is said to be travelling in Africa.

People say John Wilson has arrived in Australia.

John Wilson is said to have arrived in Australia.

Have/Get something done

- When someone does some work for us, we can use have something done.

Last year I had new tiles put on the roof.

I'm having my hair cut this afternoon.

- The same construction can describe bad luck caused by an unspecified person.
Peter had his car stolen last week.
And then he had his leg broken playing football.
- Using get instead of have in the examples in paragraph 1 above would be more informal.
 Using get can also suggest managing to do something difficult.
It was difficult but we got the painting done in the end.

Needs doing

This is an idiomatic way of expressing a passive sentence where a thing or person needs some kind of action.

The floor is filthy. It needs to be cleaned.
The floor is filthy. It needs cleaning.

Verbs and prepositions

The preposition stays with the verb in a passive sentence.

People shouted at the Prime Minister during his speech.
The Prime Minister was shouted at during his speech.

Other problems

- Be born is a passive form but does not have an obvious passive meaning.
I was born near Kyoto.
- Make (when meaning force) is followed by to in the passive.
They made David work hard.
David was made to work hard.
- Because the agent is unimportant, unknown or obvious, it is often not included. If we want to say who does the action we use by.
This letter was delivered this morning.
This letter was delivered this morning by courier.

Opening of new Gulliver Sports Centre

The Gulliver Sports Centre, which has been completely rebuilt, was been reopened yesterday by the Minister of Sport. The building it was originally used to as a market, but was sold to Faidene Council in 1981, and it then converted into a sports hall. Local schools were played football and basketball indoors, and keep-fit classes were held there. In 1990 the hall was damaged when by a fire which was broke out in the heating system. The hall could not be used, and remained empty while discussions continued about its future. It was then and decided that the hall would to be rebuilt, and an appeal for money was launched. Two years ago a local businessman offered to pay for the building work, and plans were drawn up. The new hall is includes a swimming pool, running track and other sports facilities which can be used by anyone in the Faidene area. The Minister was made a speech in which she congratulated everyone involved.

Key points

- 1 Not all verbs can be made passive. You can check in a dictionary whether the verb is transitive or intransitive.
- 2 The agent is only included if this information is needed.
- 3 Passive forms are often used to give an impersonal view.
- 4 When we change from passive to active the meaning changes slightly. In particular, the focus of interest changes. A passive form may be more suitable in some contexts but unsuitable in others.
- 5 Passive forms tend to be used more often in writing, especially in scientific and technical language.

Explanations

Subject or object

- Subject or object
Relative clauses give extra information about a noun in the main clause. Relative clauses begin with a relative pronoun (who, which, that, whom, whose). The relative pronoun can be the subject of the clause:
That's the woman who bought my car.
The woman (subject) bought my car (object).
Or the object of the clause:
That's the car that I used to own.
I (subject) used to own the car (object).

- Combining sentences
Note how sentences are combined.
Subject: This is Jean. She bought my car.
Jean is the person who bought my car.
She is not repeated, as the person is the subject.
Object: That is Jean's car. I used to own it.
That's the car that I used to own.
It is not repeated, as the car is the object.

Defining or non-defining

- Defining
Defining clauses give important information which tells us exactly what is being referred to.
That book which you lent me is really good.
This indicates which book we are talking about. Without the relative clause, it might be difficult to understand the meaning.
- Non-defining
Non-defining clauses add extra information. They are separated by commas in writing, and by a pause on either side (where the commas are) in speaking.
The book, which I hadn't read, was still on the shelf.
This gives extra information about the book. We could miss out the relative clause and the meaning would still be clear.

Omitting the relative pronoun

- Defining relative clauses
In a defining relative clause we can leave out the relative pronoun if it is the object of the clause.
That's the car (that) I used to own.
We cannot miss out the relative pronoun if it is the subject of the clause.
That's the woman who bought my car.
- Non-defining relative clauses
In a non-defining relative clause we cannot leave out the relative pronoun.

Which, who and that

- That instead of which
When we talk about things, that is often used instead of which. This is very common in speech.
Is this the house that you bought?
- That instead of who
When we talk about people, that can be used instead of who. This is less common, but we still do it, especially in speech.
Have you met the boy that Sue is going to marry?
- Which in non-defining clauses
That cannot be used to introduce a non-defining clause.
The hotel, which was a hundred years old, was very comfortable.
- Prepositions
That cannot be used after a preposition.
This is the car (that/which) I paid £2000 for. (speech)
This is the car for which I paid £2000. (formal)

Whom and whose

- Whom is the object form of who. It has to be used after prepositions. Its use is formal and quite rare.
This is the person (who) I sold my car to. (speech)
This is the person to whom I sold my car. (formal)
- Whose means of whom, and usually refers to people.
This is Jack. His sister is staying with us.
This is Jack, whose sister is staying with us.

The psychology of accidents

Most people are under the impression that doing something by a mistake is quite different from doing something on purpose. In the fact, according to by some psychologists, many accidents do not, on the whole, really happen to by chance. There may be good reasons for actions which seem to be accidental. For an example, someone who fails to arrive on time as for a meeting at work may be worried about his or her job, or be in with difficulties at home. In other words, there are often good reasons for behaviour which seems at the first to be accidental. Of this course, some people are involved in more accidents than others. These people are called 'accident prone'. In the general they either suffer from stress, or could have in a physical illness without knowing about it.

Explanations

Purpose

- So (that)
We can use so that to express purpose (the reason why someone does something). So that is usually followed by can, could, will or would.
The police locked the door so (that) no-one could get in.
- Infinitive of purpose
We can also use to to express purpose. The subject of the main clause and of the purpose clause must be the same.
Jack went to England so that he could study engineering.
Jack went to England to study engineering. (NOT for to study)
If the two subjects are different, we can't use to. We have to use so that.
Jack went to England so that his brother would have some help working in the restaurant.*
- In order to, so as to
These are more formal ways of expressing purpose.
Scientists used only local materials, in order to save money.
There are also negative forms: in order not to, so as not to.
The soldiers moved at night, so as not to alarm the villagers.
- For
This describes how something is used.
This button is for starting the engine.
This is for the lights.

Result

- So, such a
So is used with an adjective or adverb.
Jim was so tall (that) he hit his head on the ceiling.
Jim drove so quickly (that) they reached the station twenty minutes early.
Such a is used with adjective + singular noun.
Helen is such a busy person (that) she never feels bored.
- So many, so much, so few, so little
So many/few are used with plural nouns. So much/little are used with uncountable nouns.
There were so many passengers (that) we couldn't find a seat.
There was so much noise (that) I didn't get to sleep until 3 a.m.
- Too/Not enough + to
Too means more than is necessary or good. Not enough means less than is necessary or good. They can both be used with an adjective + to. Compare:
The bookcase was too big to get down the stairs.
The bookcase was not small enough to get down the stairs.

Contrast

- Although, though, even though

Although often becomes though in speech. Though can come at the end of a sentence, although cannot.

Although I asked her, she didn't come. (speech and writing)

Though I asked her, she didn't come. (speech)

I asked her, (but) she didn't come, though. (speech)

Even though gives a stronger contrast than although.

Even though I asked her, she didn't come. (which was really surprising)

- While, whereas

While and whereas are used in formal speech and writing. They compare two facts and emphasize the difference between them.

While United were fast and accurate, City were slow and careless.

- However, nevertheless

However is a way of expressing contrast in formal speech or writing. It can go at the beginning, middle or end of the sentence, and is separated by a comma (or a pause in speech).

Normally we don't refund money without a receipt. However, on this occasion I'll do it.

Normally we don't refund money without a receipt. On this occasion, however, I'll do it.

Nevertheless is a very formal way of expressing however.

I'm not happy with your work. Nevertheless, I'm going to give you one last chance.

- Despite and in spite of These expressions are followed by a noun (including the -ing form used as a noun), and not by a clause (subject + verb).

In spite of the rain, we went out. (Although it was raining, we went out.)

Despite losing, we celebrated. (Although we lost, we celebrated.)

Explanations

Ability

Can and be able to

Can, like all modal verbs, cannot be used in an infinitive or continuous form.

We use be able to in situations where we need these forms.

I'd like to be able to swim.

Not being able to swim is annoying.*

Certainty and uncertainty

- Must and can't

These words have a meaning related to certainty - they are used to make deductions. This is when we are sure or almost sure about something because it is logical. This usage is especially common with the verb be.

You must be tired after your long journey. (I'm sure you are)

That can't be Sue. She's in Brazil. (I'm sure it's not possible)

These words are also used in other ways: must for obligation (see next section) and can('t) for ability (see above).

- May, might and could

These words all express uncertainty or possibility. Could is not used with not in this context.

/ might go out, I don't know. I could get wet!

The meaning for all three words is approximately 50 per cent probability. But if we stress the modal verb strongly in speech the probability is reduced.

I might see you later if I finish my work, but don't count on it.

(might is strongly stressed in speech)

- Should and ought to

These words are both used for obligation (see next section).

But they also have a meaning related to certainty - they are used when we expect that something will happen.

Brenda should be home by now. (I expect that she is)

- Be bound to

This is used to say that something is certain to happen in the future.

You're bound to see Paula if you go there. (I'm sure you will)

Obligation

- Must and have to

In writing there is no real difference between these words. In speech there is sometimes a small difference. Must is used when the speaker personally feels something is important and have to is used when the situation makes something necessary.

You must start working harder!

(I say so)

You have to turn left here.

(it's the law)

Sorry, I must leave/have to leave now.

(in this example there is no difference)

GRAMMAR 16 MODAL VERBS: PRESENT AND FUTURE

- Mustn't and don't have to

Be careful: must and have to are very similar in their affirmative forms (see previous paragraph) but they are completely different in their negative forms.

Mustn't describes something which is prohibited. Don't have to describes something which is not necessary.

You mustn't leave now. (It's not allowed. It's against the rules.)

You don't have to leave now. (It's not necessary. You have a choice.)

- Should and ought to

These words have the same meaning. They are used to say what is the best thing to do. They can be used to give an opinion, some advice, or polite instructions.

We should do something different for our holidays this year.*

I think you should see a doctor.

You ought not to smoke if you're pregnant.

You should send in your application by July 18th.

- Had better

This phrase gives strong advice about how to stop something going wrong. It can refer to present or future time.

I think you'd better leave now. (before it is too late)

You'd better not drive. (it might be dangerous)

- Is/Are to

This is used in formal instructions. Not is stressed.

No-one is to leave the room.

You are not to leave the room.

Key points

- 1 Most modal auxiliaries have more than one meaning. You should think carefully about the context, or tone of voice, to understand the meaning.
- 2 The negative forms mustn't and don't have to have different meanings.
You mustn't go. (it's against the rules)
You don't have to go. (it isn't necessary)
- 3 In normal speech should is a weaker obligation than must and have to.
You should go to the doctor. (I think it's a good idea)
You must go to the doctor. (it's necessary)

But in formal speech or writing should can be a way of expressing a strong obligation.

Passengers for Gatwick Airport should change at Reading.

Grammar 17: Modal verbs: past
Grammar 20: Consolidation 4

Explanations

Ability

Could and was able to

To talk about general past ability we use could.

When I was young, I could run very fast.

To talk about one specific past action we use was able to.

Luckily, Mary was able to help us.

Certainty and uncertainty

- Must have and can't have

These are used to make logical deductions about past actions.

I must have left my wallet in the car. (I am sure I did)

Jim can't have noticed you. (I am sure he didn't)

- May have, might have and could have

These express possibility or uncertainty about past actions.

Jean might have missed the train. (perhaps she did)

He may not have received the letter. (perhaps he didn't)

You could have been killed! (it was a possibility)

- Was/Were to have

This describes something which was supposed to happen, but didn't. It is formal in use.

He was to have left yesterday. (he was supposed to leave, but he didn't)

Obligation

- Had to

Must has no past form, so we use had to.

Sorry I'm late, I had to take the children to school.

The question form is Did you have to?

Did you have to work late yesterday?*

- Should have and ought to have

These express the feeling that a mistake was made. There is a criticism.

I should have posted this letter yesterday. (I didn't do the right thing)

You shouldn't have told me the answer. (you were wrong to do so)

- Needn't have and didn't need to

There is a slight difference between these two forms. Compare:

/ needn't have arrived at seven.*

(I arrived at seven, but it wasn't necessary)

/ didn't need to arrive at seven.*

(we don't know when I arrived - maybe seven or later)

But in everyday speech we often use didn't need to for both cases.

Pronunciation and writing

In speech, have is often contracted in the forms in this unit.

I must've left my wallet in the car.

Indirect speech

Must and shall

In indirect speech (see Grammar 6) must is reported as must or had to. Shall is reported as should.

'You must go.' He told me I must go.

He told me I had to go.

'Shall I help?' He asked if he should help.

Zoo escape shocks residents

Residents in the Blackwood area complained last night that they should have had been warned about the escape of a dangerous snake. The snake, a python is three metres long, and can to kill pets. 'I heard about it on the radio,' said Mrs Agnes Bird. 'I had gone to lock my dog in the kitchen this morning, because I thought the snake could easily have attack it. Now I am not sure what I ought to be do.' The snake, called Lulu, disappeared from the Blackwood Zoo. 'It must be have found a hole in the wall, or it might have been slipped out while the door was open,' said zoo director Basil Hart. Mr Hart said that people didn't needn't have been alarmed. 'A local radio station must have had mixed up its reports,' he went on. 'We found Lulu a few minutes after we missed her. We have had to climb a tree and bring her down. So you see, you should have never believe silly stories you hear on the radio!'

Explanations

- What are functions?

We can describe language by using words to talk about grammar (grammatical description). But we can also describe language by saying how it is used. This is the function of the language (functional description).

If I were you, I'd leave now. grammatical description: second conditional functional description: giving advice

- Choosing what to say

Our choice of words can be influenced by the situation we are in, by the person we are talking to, and by what we are talking about. Compare these different phrases for asking permission.

Asking permission from a friend:

Is it all right if I use the phone?

Asking permission from the same person, but about a more serious topic:

Do you think I could possibly phone Australia?

Asking permission from a stranger:

Do you mind if I open the window?

The first example was informal and friendly. The second two examples were more formal and polite. There are no exact rules about when to use an informal phrase and when to use a polite phrase, but usually we use polite language when we:

- talk to strangers or people we don't know well.
- talk to people who have higher status.
- talk about sensitive topics.

- This unit practises the following functions and possible responses.

Asking for and giving advice

Agreeing and disagreeing

Say one thing, mean another

Do you ever get annoyed by people who say one thing but mean another? For example, they say you, 'That's a very kind of you, I'd love to,' when you are invite them to the cinema, but really they are thinking of an excuse so they can avoid you! People who ask for an advice also annoy me. They say things like 'What do you think I should do?' but then they don't listen to what you tell with them. Sometimes they don't even let you answer, but answer themselves! This really gets on to my nerves. Politeness is also a problem. When people ask to you to open a window, they say 'Excuse me, but it could you possibly open the window for me?' I prefer to be more direct. Why shouldn't we just ever say 'Can you to open the window?' or something like that? I've tried this a few times, but people either look annoyed, or they don't do it what I ask them to. I wonder why?

An uncountable noun has only one form. We can only use a singular verb with it. We cannot use numbers with it.

However, we can count an uncountable noun indirectly by using a phrase like a piece of, a bit of.

When I left home my mother gave me two useful bits of advice.

I've found out several interesting pieces of information.

A few uncountable nouns end in -s, but they follow the normal rules for uncountable nouns and have a singular verb.

Key points

- 1 With some types of building, the meaning can change depending on the use of the article.
Helen is at school. (the purpose of the school is important - Helen is a student or a teacher)
Helen is at the school. (the building itself is important - it is the place where we can find Helen)
- 2 The use of the article can show something about the context of a short piece of text. In particular, whether an item has or has not been mentioned before.
The BBC reported that the two men have since been recaptured.
 Use of the shows that the two men have been mentioned before, and so this is an extract from a longer text.
- 3 Many uses of articles are idiomatic, and should be learned as part of a phrase.
Diana works as a graphic designer.

Grammar 21: Countable and uncountable nouns

Grammar 23: All, no, none, each, every, either, neither

Explanations

- All - When all is used to show the quantity of something, it can be followed by of.
Jim was there all (of) the time.
- All can be used for emphasis. Note the position.
They all wore white shorts and shirts.*
Those stamps you bought me have all disappeared.*
 - All means the only thing when it is used in the construction all + subject + verb.
All I want is some peace and quiet.*
 It is unusual to use all as a single-word subject or object. Instead we use everything to mean all the things.
Everything has gone wrong! (NOT All has gone wrong!)*
- No
- When no is used to show the quantity of something, it can mean not any.
There are no plates left. No new students have joined the class.
 - No can also be used with a comparative adjective.
It's no worse than before.
There were no less than 500 applications for the job.
 - No is not normally used alone before an adjective. Compare:
This book doesn't have any interesting parts. (usual)
There are no interesting parts in this book. (unusual - very emphatic)
It is not interesting.
 But there is an idiomatic use of no with good.
I tried hard but it was no good, I couldn't reach. (no good = useless)
 Another common idiomatic use is with -ing forms.
Remember, no cheating! No smoking, please.
- None
- We do not use no of. Instead, we use none of or none on its own.
None of the films that are showing in town look very interesting.*
I've checked all the films that are showing in town. None look very interesting.
 In everyday speech none is often followed by a plural verb form. In formal speech or writing it can be followed by a singular verb form.
None of these telephones work.*
None of the members of the committee has arrived yet.*
 - To emphasize the idea of none we can use none at all or not one.
A: How many people came to the party?
*B: None!/None at all/Not one!

Each, every

- The meaning of each and every is very similar and often either word is possible.
Each/Every time I come here I go to my favourite restaurant.
 But sometimes there is a small difference. We use each when we think of the single items in a group, one by one. We use every when we think of the items in a group all together. Compare:
They gave a medal to each member of the team.
I believe every word he says.
 - Each is more usual with a smaller group, and can mean only two. Every is more usual with a larger number, and cannot mean two.
She kissed him on each cheek.
 - We can use each of, but we cannot use every of.
When the team won the cup, each of them was given a medal.
- Each can be used after the subject, or at the end of a sentence.
The members each received a medal.
The members received a medal each.
- Repeated actions are generally described with every.
I practise the violin every day.

Either, neither

- Either and neither both refer to choices between two items. Either means the one or the other. Neither means not the one or the other.
Monday or Tuesday? Yes, either day is fine.
Monday or Tuesday? I'm sorry, but neither day is convenient.
 So not + either is the same as neither.
I didn't like either of those films.
Neither of the films was any good.*
- Either can also mean both. Note that either is followed by the singular form of the noun.
On either side of the house there are shops. (on both sides)

FIRST CERTIFICATE LANGUAGE PRACTICE

All we need now is a new car.
But we do not use all by itself as a subject. Instead we use everything.
Everything is missing, I'm afraid. (NOT All is missing)
 - 2 Note these idiomatic uses of no.
No parking. No smoking.
It's no use. It's no good.
 - 3 Each refers to the single items in a group, one by one. Every refers to all the items of a group together. It is usual for larger numbers.
Make sure that each letter has a stamp.
Every Manchester United fan will be celebrating tonight.
Both words are followed by a singular verb (has not have in the example above).
We can use each of but not every of.
Each of these books has its interesting points.
 - 4 Either and neither refer to two items, separately.

Neither of these hotels is very comfortable.
Both words are followed by a singular verb (is not are in the example above).

Irregular comparatives are:
good, better bad, worse far, farther/further
Note that further has two meanings: a normal meaning of more far, and another meaning of just more.
How much further do we have to go? (more far)
I can't really advise you any further. (more)
Old has a regular form older, and an irregular form elder that is used as an adjective.
This is my elder sister.

modern, more modern, the most modern interesting, more interesting, the most interesting
- Irregular forms are:

Comparatives of adverbs

- Adverbs follow the same rules as adjectives.

Two syllables ending -y: early, earlier, the earliest
Two or more syllables: efficiently, more/less efficiently, the most/least efficiently

The house painters

Last week some painters came round to paint my house. I usually do this kind of a job myself, but I've been here very busy for the last month. So I called a more local decorating firm, and they agreed to do it for a reasonable price. Three men arrived on Monday the morning to paint the outside walls. Of course, they were used the wrong colour and spilt paint all over the front door. Some one of the windows upstairs were open, and some of paint went inside the house and ruined both the carpet in the living-room. They also broke a window. I phoned their company, and the manager assured me that they would repaint than the walls. Then I went away on a business. I've just come back, and the walls are a different colour, but it is still such the wrong colour. If I had done the job myself, I would have finished it by now.

Explanations

Understanding phrasal verbs

- Verbs are often followed by particles like back, off, through, up, etc (the word particle means adverb or preposition). Sometimes both verb and particle have their normal meaning. At other times there is a new meaning when they are put together. Compare:

Can you bring up the radio from downstairs? (normal meaning)

She has brought up two children on her own.

(new meaning = look after until adult)

The term 'phrasal verb' is used for the second case, where the verb + particle together has a special meaning. Phrasal verbs are common in informal English.

- Often one phrasal verb can have several different meanings and the correct one is only clear from the context.
- There are four types of phrasal verbs. These are covered in Grammar 26 and 27.
 - Grammar 26:
 - phrasal verbs with two particles.
 - phrasal verbs with one particle; there must be an object; the particle is inseparable.
 - Grammar 27:
 - phrasal verbs with one particle; there must be an object; the particle can be separated from the verb.
 - phrasal verbs with one particle; there is no object.

Verbs with two particles

A selection of phrasal verbs is listed here with examples. Others, and other meanings of those listed here, are included in the Practice section.

Most of the verbs in the list need an object, and the object can only come at the end (so the verbs are inseparable).

I'm looking forward to my holidays.

But some verbs are marked with an asterisk *. With these verbs there is another form: there is no object, and the final particle is not used.

I've decided to cut down on smoking. I've decided to cut down.

Cut down on*

I've decided to cut down on smoking. (reduce the amount of)

Catch up with*

They are too far ahead for us to catch up with them. (reach the same place as)

Come up against

I'm afraid we've come up against a problem we can't solve. (meet, find)

Come up with

Have you come up with an answer yet? (think of)

Drop in on*

I dropped in on Bill and Sheila on my way home. (visit for a short time)

Face up to

You must face up to reality! (accept, deal with)

Feel up to

You must feel up to going to work. (have the strength and energy to do)

Get away with

Jack stole the money and got away with it. (do something bad and not be punished)

Get along/on with*

Do you get along/on with your new boss? (have good relations with)

Look down on

Our neighbours look down on anyone without a car. (feel superior to)

I really look up to my teacher. (respect)

Look forward to

We are looking forward to our holiday. (think we will enjoy)

Make up for

This wonderful dinner made up for the bad service. (compensate for)

Put up with

I can't put up with these screaming children! (accept without complaining)

Run out of*

Oh dear, we've run out of petrol! (have no more of)

Stand up for

You must learn to stand up for yourself! (defend)

Verbs with one particle: transitive and inseparable

It cannot go between the verb and the particle.

Explanations

Verbs with one particle: transitive and separable

These phrasal verbs take an object. This object can come after the particle or between the verb and the particle (so the verbs are separable).

We brought up this child. We brought her up.

In general, as in the examples above, object phrases tend to be put after the particle while pronouns are often put between the verb and the particle.

Two exceptions in the list below are call back and show around where the object is always put between the verb and the particle.

Verbs marked with an asterisk * have a second meaning. With this meaning they have an intransitive form.

Bring up

We brought up this child. (look after until adult)

Carry out

You haven't carried out my instructions. (act upon)

Call off

We have decided to call off the match. (cancel)

Clear up*

Could you clear up your room please? (make tidy)

The weather is clearing up.* (improve)

Fill in*

Can you fill in this form please? (complete by writing)

- Key points
- 1 Check verbs and adjectives in a dictionary to be certain which prepositions follow them.
 - 2 In some cases different prepositions give different meanings.
 - 3 Note the difference between used to (see Grammar 1) and be used to.
I used to go to the beach every weekend when I was a child.
 This is a habit in the past which is no longer true. To is part of the infinitive to go in this sentence.
I am not used to getting up so early in the morning.
 If you are used to something you have done it many times so that it no longer seems surprising or difficult. In this case to is a preposition, and getting up is the noun form of the verb (gerund).

Inversion after negative adverbs

In formal speech and writing there is a special construction when the sentence begins with a negative adverb (or one with negative meaning). The subject and the verb are inverted from the normal form to a question form. Study the examples below.

- Not only
Harry not only missed the train, but also lost his case. (normal form)
Not only did Harry miss the train, but (he) also lost his case.* (inversion)
- No sooner
 With no sooner the main verb is always in the past perfect.
Tim had no sooner left, than the phone rang. (normal form)
No sooner had Tim left, than the phone rang.* (inversion)
- Under no circumstances
You shouldn't touch these wires under any circumstances. (normal form)
Under no circumstances should you touch these wires.* (inversion)
- Seldom
I have seldom watched a better match. (normal form)
Seldom have I watched a better match.* (inversion)
- Other expressions which are followed by an inversion are:
little, never, not once, only then, only after, rarely

Inversion to emphasize an

With some expressions we can begin the sentence with an adverb and then put the verb before the subject.

- With come and go we can start the sentence with an adverb of place. This construction is used with exclamations. It is an informal usage.
Here comes Jack!* There goes my money!*
Up went the plane into the clouds!* Along the road came Jim.*
- With live and stand we can start the sentence with an adverb of place. This is a formal usage.
In this house lived Charles Dickens.*
On a hill outside the town stands the castle.*
- With be we can begin the sentence with now.
Now is the best time to visit the Channel Islands.*

FIRST CERTIFICATE LANGUAGE PRACTICE

Question tags

- Sometimes a simple statement is too short and does not help the conversation to develop in a friendly way.

You're French.

The other person does not know what to say. We can add a tag to the end of the statement so that it becomes a question.

You're French, aren't you?

Now the other person knows that they have to reply and the conversation can continue.

If the intonation of the tag rises it is a genuine question. The other person will probably continue the conversation.

A: You're French, aren't you? (————— ↗)

B: Yes, that's right. I was born in a town in the north of France although now I live ...

If the intonation falls, it is just checking information. The first speaker will probably continue.

A: You're French, aren't you? (————— ↘)

B: Yes, that's right.

A: I thought you were. Have you met Pierre? He's from France as well.

- Tags are formed using auxiliaries {do, be, have or a modal}.

Helen lives here, doesn't she?

You left early, didn't you?

Jack was born in Italy, wasn't he?

You will help me, won't you?

Someone's got to pay, haven't they?

- A positive statement has a negative tag, and expects the answer Yes.

A: You agree with me, don't you?

B: Yes, I do.

A negative statement has a positive tag, and expects the answer No.

A: You don't take sugar, do you?

B: No, I don't.

It is possible for a positive tag to follow a positive statement, to express interest, or ask for confirmation. This is less common.

So you like working here, do you?

Tags with will and won't can be used after imperatives.

Don't drive too fast, will you?

- Let's ... has a tag formed with shall.

Let's have a drink, shall we?

Key points

- 1 In formal speech and writing it is possible to use inversion after negative adverbs. The adverb has to be at the beginning of the sentence or clause.
- 2 Intonation carries important meaning in question tags. Rising tags are questions, falling tags are checking information.

Grammar 35: Consolidation 7

Explanations

Reason

- Because, as and since
As and since have the meaning of because and can begin a sentence.
As/since it was late, we decided to go home.
 In formal, written language we can use for to mean because, but it cannot begin a sentence.
Peter has given up sailing, for he doesn't have the time.
- Because of, on account of, due to and owing to
 We can use all these words in place of because of.
Everyone was depressed on account of/due to/owing to the bad weather.
 Note this difference:
Sue's success was due to her hard work. (noun + be + due to)
Sue succeeded owing to her hard work. (verb + owing to)

Text organizers

Grammar 13 and the first part of this unit cover linking words that join clauses within a sentence. There are also linking words that join ideas across sentences and paragraphs. These are sometimes called 'text organizers' because they make clear the organization of what we say or write. They are more common in writing or formal speech. They usually come at the start of a sentence and have a comma afterwards, but can come after a comma in the middle of a sentence.

- Sequencing
 We often number or order the points we are making.
First (of all) ..., Secondly ..., Next..., Then ..., Finally/lastly/last of all ...
 In narrative, the sequence of events can be introduced by:
First..., Then ..., After that..., Finally/in the end ...
- Adding
 We can introduce additional points.
Furthermore ..., Moreover ..., In addition to ..., As well as this ..., Besides this ...
- Giving opinions
 We can introduce personal opinions.
Personally ..., In my own opinion/view ...
- Giving examples
 We can introduce examples.
For example ..., For instance ...
 We can also use such as to give an example, but it is not used at the beginning of a sentence.
The factory produces electrical goods, such as food mixers and other kitchen appliances.

- Showing a result
Grammar 13 gave some informal ways to show a result. Formal ways include:
Consequently ..., As a result..., Thus ...
- Making a contrast
Grammar 13 gave some informal ways to make a contrast. Formal ways include:
On the other hand ..., However ..., Nevertheless ..., In contrast...,
In comparison ...
- Summarizing
We can summarize all the points we have made.
In conclusion ..., To sum up ...

- Key points
- 1 Text organizers help readers and listeners to follow the development of an argument. Most of the expressions listed are formal in use.
 - 2 Because text organizers make links across sentences, their meaning is only clear when you study the ideas that come before and after them (the whole context).

Explanations

It and there

It generally refers to something already mentioned. There is used with be to say that something exists.

There is a good film on tonight. It stars Kim Basinger.

It is also used in some phrases which do not have a grammatical subject.

It's raining again. It's half past six.

It doesn't matter. It's time to go.

It and adjectives

It is also used in the pattern it + adjective + infinitive/-ing.

It's good to see you. It was nice meeting you.

In informal speech, it and the verb be are often left out.

Good to see you. Nice meeting you.

One

One can be used as a pronoun, and has a plural ones.

I don't like this one. I only like green ones.

- The phrase one another refers to two subjects.

Martin and David can't stand one another.

This means that Martin can't stand David, and David can't stand Martin.

- In normal conversation we use you to refer to anybody.

As you get older you tend to forget things.

But in formal speech and writing we can use one with this meaning. This is considered over-formal by many speakers.

What does one wear to a dinner of this kind?

It's not pleasant to hear oneself described by one's employees.

Someone, everyone,

-body can be used instead of -one without a change in meaning.

anyone, somewhere, etc

-Words beginning some or any follow the usual patterns for these words, with any words normally used in questions and after negatives.

There's something under the desk. Can you see anything?

But we can use some in a question if it is an offer or request.

Are you looking for somewhere to stay?

Could someone help me, please?

And we use any in positive statements where we mean it doesn't matter which or there is no limit to the possibilities.

Please sit anywhere you like.

Anyone who's tall will do.

What as a pronoun

What can be used as a pronoun meaning the thing(s) that.

What we need is a hammer.*

Whatever, whoever, wherever, whenever,

- These words are used to add emphasis to the question word.
What you are doing? -> Whatever are you doing? (shows more surprise)

why ever, however

- We also use these words to mean any at all.
Whatever you say is wrong! (Anything at all you say ...)*

Reflexive pronouns

- Reflexive pronouns can be used for emphasis.

Why don't you do it yourself?

I paid for the tickets myself.

- They are also used for some actions that we do to ourselves.

Sue cut herself. I have hurt myself. Did you enjoy yourself?

But other verbs are not normally used with a reflexive pronoun, even though they are in other languages. Examples include: change (clothes), complain, decide, dress, feel, meet, relax, remember, rest, sit down, stand up, wake up, wash, wonder, worry

Possessives: parts of the body

When we talk about parts of the body we often use a preposition + the rather than a preposition + a possessive adjective.

Jack gave Bill a punch on the nose. I grabbed him by the arm.

Jack punched Bill on the nose. I looked him in the eyes.

Kidnapped by aliens

I am sure you have heard of Marion Taylor, haven't you? Marion was the young girl she kidnapped by aliens in 1993. Not only that was she given a ride to a distant planet, but whether she also managed to take some photos of the aliens who they had taken her prisoner, since she had been carrying herself a camera when they captured her. Whenever I hear stories like this I assume so that they have been made them up. It is hard to believe Marion's story, owing to the fact that she was only ten years old at the time. Besides this, it was turned out that she spent most of her time watching science fiction videos. One cannot really believe in that there are really little green aliens who they fly all the way to our planet just so that they can kidnap people. Nevertheless, although Marion became famous and her photos were bought by a newspaper for a great deal of money.
